City will provide services to business above US-90

By ELLIS CUEVAS
It was revealed Tuesday night that the City of Bay St. Louis will provide water and fire protection for the commercial area North of US-90 from Blue Meadow Road to Washington Streets.

The City proposes to do the installation with city crews under engineering direction from James Chinche.

Money to purchase the materials, estimated to cost some $30,000, will be drawn from a contingency fund.

Permission to use those funds was granted by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The consent of HUD to release the funds for the project is upon the condition the city agrees to repay the contingency fund within five years.

Delegations of merchants have been requesting the water and fire protection and a public hearing was recently held by the city proposing a front foot assessment to partially pay the installation.

The property owners objected, saying, "The area was promised those services within five years after the annexation and we do not feel we should have to pay for them now."

Councilman at Large Wilmer Seymour made the motion for the city crews to do the work on the water line and received approval with Councilman James Thriffley opposed.

City Clerk Kelly McQueen said a letter was written to HUD to see if the contingency funds could be used.

McQueen said the City would have to make repayments to the fund in the amount of $800 per month instead of the current $500.

Beach road a quandary for Waveland officials

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The Waveland Board of Aldermen is in a quandary about Beach Boulevard maintenance responsibility.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors say Beach Boulevard is the city's responsibility, but Waveland Mayor John Longo says an official document from the supervisors is needed giving his city authority to maintain the road.

At the regular aldermen's meeting Tuesday night, Alderman Jack Toomey asked, "What about the beach road funds?"

Longo reported, "I called Washington and from what I found out, everything is in order, but at this time Beach Boulevard is a municipal project. They say it's been transferred to an urban road."

"That's how Bay St. Louis got Main Street paved, under urban roadways funds from the Department of Transportation, but Waveland doesn't qualify," Longo said.

"I don't see how we can get funds, but if we have to take it over we'll take it," Longo added.

Alderman Louis Smolenski said, "Well, in other words, we can't spend money on the beach road until we know it's ours?"

Longo replied, "We've had a good working relationship with the county. We enjoy the beach and we need to keep it clean, but if you spend city tax dollars on it, you're going to catch hell."

"I think a lot of people are misinformed about this based on articles in the paper," Longo said.

"What you're (Smolenski) talking about could cost about $1 million," Longo added.

Bay Council rejects Cedar Point variance

By ELLIS CUEVAS
The Bay St. Louis Council devoted most of Tuesday's regular meeting to acting on the Planning and Zoning Commission's meeting of May 22.

The Planning and Zoning Commission makes recommendations to the Council for its acceptance or rejection.

A delegation of Cedar Point residents in the vicinity of Dunbar, Dogwood and the Beach protested a recommendation by the Planning and Zoning Commission to change a lot's classification from R-1 to R-1B in order to construct an additional home on that lot.

The property owned by T. A. Williams on Dogwood Drive is apparently up for sale with Nel Frisbie, Inc., as agent.

Bill Frisbie representing Nel Frisbie, questioned the council showing a color-keyed map, saying, "The majority of the lots in the subdivision are R-1B, and there is only one property in a block

Primary voter turnout poor

By RICH ADAMS
Less than six percent of the total 15,840 registered Hancock County voters went to the polls Tuesday to cast their votes in the state's first moot Republican presidential preference and a Democratic primary election.

Deputy Circuit Court Clerk Carolyn Ring said Wednesday the ballots were counted in a record 1.5 hours Tuesday night, due to the use of new computerized voting machines purchased this year.

In the Republican presidential preference race, Ronald Regan defeated George Bush by a landslide margin, the former governor of California receiving 1,905 votes compared to Bush's 27.

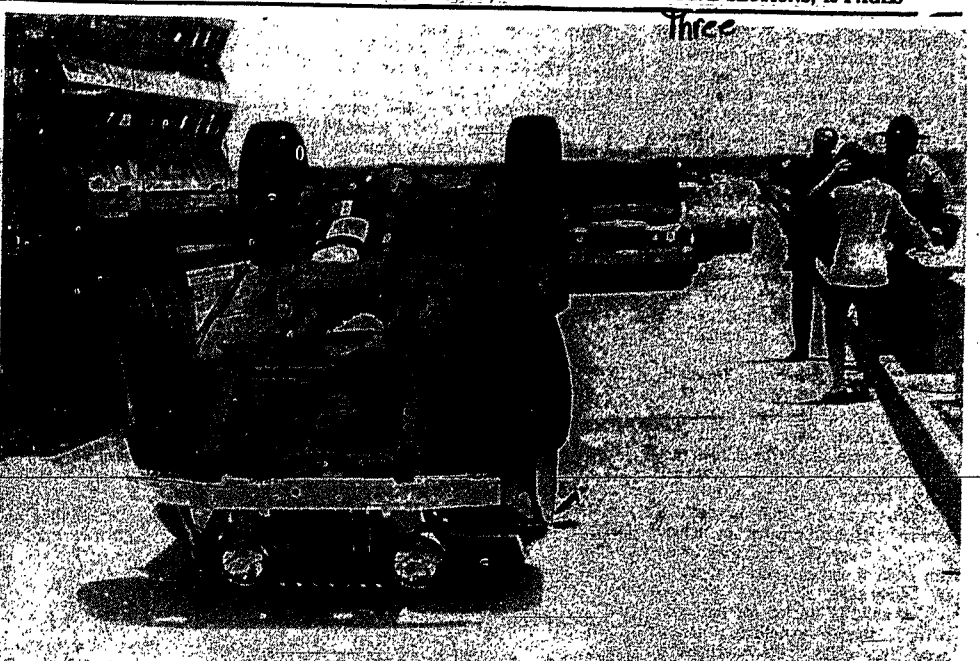

The results were no surprise as Bush withdrew from the presidential race last month after Regan appeared to have captured enough delegates to win the nomination.

In the Democratic primary for a Fifth District U.S. representative nominee, Jimmy McVey won the Hancock County primary with 347 votes.

James Ellison Parker followed with 169 votes, and Arion (Blackie) Coste received 52 votes.

In the primary race for a District Two Supreme Court judge, Harry G. Walker defeated James D. Heister in the county with 467 votes compared to Heister's 179 votes.

In addition to being the first Republican presidential primary, this was also the first election in which the new voting machines were utilized in Hancock County.

OVERTURNED - Cheri Hofer, 22, of Oak Forest, Ill., rubs her head after her husband, John R. Hofer, 22, apparently lost control of the jeep he was driving Tuesday, causing the vehicle to strike a curb and overturn in the westbound lane of I-10 near the Louisiana state line. Highway Patrolman David Kenny, sitting on the median, said Mr. Hofer received minor head injuries in the mishap. Louisiana Highway Patrolmen also arrived at the scene of the accident, some 35 feet short of the Louisiana line at the peak of the tall bridge. Kenny said no citations were issued. Mobile Medic also responded to the mishap. (Staff photo-Rich Adams)

County to rebuild Crane Creek bridge

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Advertisements for bids to reconstruct a bridge at Crane Creek in District Three were authorized by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors Tuesday.

County Engineer Lawrence Seal of Piquette told the supervisors the wooden pilings supporting the concrete bridge are rotted and have to be replaced.

"I'm working up specifications for labor, materials and equipment to reset the bridge superstructure back on top of new pilings," Seal reported.

"I arrived at a cost of about $15,000," Seal added.

District Five Supervisor James Travica said, "We'll never do it for $15,000, but maybe for $30,000."

Seal explained, "I want to drive two test pilings, but I would say offhand this bridge will need 35-foot piling."

"We will move the location of the bridge three feet forward and cut off the existing piling," the engineer stated.

"H.E. Wilson built the bridge in the early 50's and if they would have used 16-pound creosote piling the bridge would have lasted longer. A 16-pound piling is a State Aid standard," Seal reported.

"I think my $15,000 estimate is way too low," Seal added.

$50 million Borg-Warner plant groundbreaking slated Friday

Borg-Warner Chemicals will formally launch a construction program in Hancock County Friday afternoon when ground will be broken for a $50-million plastics plant at Port Bienville Industrial Park.

manager Leo B. Kowal, "and it will only be surpassed by that day when we dedicate the plant and begin its operation about two years from now."

Hundreds of South Mississippians are expected to be on hand for the festivities which will include flag raising by the American Legion color guard and music by the drum and bugle corps from Keesler Air Force Base.

The plant will have the capacity to manufacture 150 million pounds of ABS plastics per year. Borg-Warner's plastics are used in hundreds of common household products such as telephone housings, automobile grilles and interior trim parts, power tool and appliance housings and refrigerator interiors.

"This plant will employ the latest technology available for the manufacture of ABS plastics," Kowal said. "The plant will be very compatible with the environment. Liquid wastes generated during the manufacturing process will be hauled to licensed disposal areas," he added.

ENGINEERING MODEL of Borg-Warner Chemicals' plastics plant at Port Bienville Industrial Park shows what the facility will look like when completed in 1982. The office building and parking lot are at extreme left, manufacturing area and warehousing at center and the barge dock at right. When completed, the plant will have the capacity to make 150 million pounds of ABS per year. Public groundbreaking ceremonies at the site are scheduled for 2 p.m. Friday. Part Four-Child Abuse

Factors causing abuse, the child's perspective

EDITOR'S NOTE: This fourth installment in our series will cite common factors present in child abuse situations and explore the attitudes of abused children with Dr. Catherine Lundy of Waveland, psychologist and coordinator of Hancock County services for Gulf Coast Mental Health Center. In the fifth and final installment we will conclude our series with suggestions on how these troubled families may seek help or be helped.

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Certain factors are always present in child abuse cases and abused children develop beliefs which can later turn these children into abusing parents themselves if these young people are not helped.

Dr. Catherine Lundy of Waveland, psychologist and coordinator of Hancock County services for Gulf Coast Mental Health Center in Gulfport, reports, "Something in the child-parent relationship causes stress and there are always certain factors present."

"Primarily, the child in such a stressed relationship is usually unique in several ways. He or she may be an only child or one of several children," Dr. Lundy says.

"The child is singled out for some reason... there's something 'special' about this child," the psychologist states.

"This may be a psychological tie or an actual physical problem," Dr. Lundy says.

"A high proportion of these abused children are developmentally disabled, deformed, hyper-active, sickly or born prematurely. These children require special care," Dr. Lundy explains.

"For instance, cholera, irritable babies don't meet the parent's expectations for a cuddly baby—instead they cringe and cry," the psychologist reports.

"Environmental stress can lead to child abuse. This could be due to marital problems, a child born out of wedlock, poverty, crowding and other children," Dr. Lundy says.

"Some studies show when a lot of children are born one right after another, there's a high risk for child abuse to occur," Dr. Lundy reports.

"Most child abusers are 26-30 years old and the average age for abused children is two-four years old, but most children are abused as infants—when they're young, helpless, and can't get away," Dr. Lundy explains.

"Five out of 25 infant murders occur at about one year of age," the psychologist reports.

Dr. Lundy says abused children develop beliefs which can trap them in their situation.

Abused children say to themselves, "Mommy and daddy are all I have in this world and they punish me because I'm bad," Dr. Lundy reports.

These children also say to themselves, "Mommy and daddy sometimes are good to me, but they're all I have," Dr. Lundy adds.

Abused children also fear serious harm if they tell someone of their problem.

Dr. Lundy reports, "The child says to himself, if I tell somebody they will take me away from my parents and mommy and daddy won't love me anymore."

"The actual problem is the child will be beaten more if he tells someone of his problem," Dr. Lundy says.

"The child is in a bind—he loves his parents and wants to please them, but there's no one there to control their actions," the psychologist reports.

"Frequently these children don't respond and don't mind when they're pushed against the wall or something," Dr. Lundy states.

"A child may love his parents, but doesn't get attention, so he does something bad to get attention," Dr. Lundy says.

"Both the parent's and child's complaints are legitimate," Dr. Lundy adds.

The psychologist reiterates, "The child thinks if I tell a teacher I might be taken away—the unknown to the child is scary."

"A child needs a teacher to confide in if abuse is suspected," Dr. Lundy concludes.

Smolenski said, "The main thing I'm talking about is there are serious problems with holes on the beach road. I'm tired of someone asking me if Beach Boulevard is ours or the county's."

Longo reiterated, "The federal government said the beach road is an urban road, but we're not eligible for urban funds."

"If they say the road is ours, we'll have to get some funds, but I hate to come out of church and have people ask me about the beach road," Longo reported.

Alderman Jack Toomey said, "People will use the beach all day Saturday and Sunday, but they will scream when you ask them for tax money to fix the road."

Longo stated, "The problem is, when you fix the beach road then, a person in town with holes in his street will scream why don't we get our road fixed?"

Smolenski said, "I think somebody ought to take an interest. What you're saying is we're caught in the middle."

Alderman Barbara Rappold reported, "When I first came here the county did everything on the beach-front."

Longo said, "But now, the taxes for the seawall go to the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission."

Rappold added, "Hancock County has a three-cent gasoline seawall tax. Longo reported, 'We've never had any jurisdiction over the beach.'"

"The only thing I understand is that the beach road project is approved and the supervisors are just waiting on financing," the mayor said.

Rappold stated, "But we might not even get next year's money. We've waited for funds for a year already."

Longo suggested, "If you want we can get some estimates, but I'll have to check the legality of this first. You're probably talking about a $25,000 project."

Toomey reported, "The biggest problem is the water coming off of people's property on to the street."

The mayor said, "There's a certain amount of water that comes right down several roads and we've got some awful spots in front of those roads."

"The supervisors just got a law two or three years ago allowing them to come into cities. We're just in a dilemma if they don't get some funds soon."

In other business, at the 7:30 p.m. City Hall meeting, the aldermen:

—Accepted, as a retroactive action dated Dec. 28, 1970, two unnamed streets bordering Waveland Elementary School which run into St. Joseph Street. The city's action was at the request of Developer C.C. McDonald of Bay St. Louis who is building homes on four lots along one of the streets.

—Authorized a $30 advertisement in St. Stanislaus High School's 1980 football program;

—Authorized three lights for the Elmore-Bonnie-Bonnie Park parking lot near Waveland Avenue as requested by Longo;

—Received a letter from the Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo inviting the aldermen to a seafood dinner 7:30 p.m. June 4;

—Heard a report from Toomey that railroad crossings in the city are sinking up to five inches from rainfall and railroad track lag screws are protruding three-inches out of the ground;

—Heard a report from Toomey that a trash problem exists around dumpsters throughout the city. Longo said he would call Gulf Coast Waste and Disposal about the problem;

—Heard a report from Longo that a letter was sent to the Mississippi Emergency Management Committee listing Waveland's damages from recent floods and tornadoes amounting to almost $2 million;

—Heard a report from Longo that drainage problems cited by John Schwartz, who lives at the corner of Garden Lane and Jeff Davis Avenue, have been corrected.

Cedar Point.....

area that meets the R-1 classification. "The (Nathaniel) Langlois' home is the only one that meets the R-1 classification and you talk about spot zoning," Frisbie added.

Frisbie also told council members they did not have an official zoning map and there are several defects in the zoning ordinance.

Langlois objected to the change because he feels it would cut off his view of the beach if the lot would be divided and another home constructed.

Michael Gemelli stated he is opposed to the classification change because it would create a 80 by 120-foot lot and deteriorate the value of the property in the neighborhood.

This lot would only be 9,600 square feet which is well below the minimum standards," Gemelli stated.

Council President Pete Benvenuti, due to a death in his family, was not present at the meeting but had submitted a letter to the council in reference to the classification change.

Benvenuti stated in the letter he is against the change, and also commented on the fact that there is an ordinance requiring all lots facing the Beach be comprised of at least 15,000 feet.

Council was unanimous in voting against the change requested by the property owner and rejected the Planning and Zoning's recommendation.

The Planning and Zoning Commission also heard a request from Eugene Schuengel requesting a change from an R-3 to a I-1 classification.

Schuengel's request was made that he may be able to add onto his present business which is located on property in the 500 block of Main Street.

The Planning and Zoning Commission recommended that the request be denied.

Council took the Schuengel request under advisement for further study since his establishment was in operation before the zoning ordinances were adopted.

The businessman said his new equipment includes a lathe and it would not make any noise.

Council was in agreement with a request by Nel Frisbie on behalf of Henry Chapman and John E. Bell for the division of a lot on North Beach Boulevard.

The Planning and Zoning Commission was also in favor of granting the change.

Council also approved the dividing of a lot in Our Lady of the Gulf Subdivision into two lots of 1.1 acres each.

A letter was recorded in the minutes from Mrs. Gertrude Partridge Stanton objecting to spot zoning.

The letter by Mrs. Stanton said, "...Business cards of Crosby and Son Appliance Service at 132 Sycamore Street have been issued. These cards already bear a telephone number. How can this be when the property owners within the required distance of 132 Sycamore Street have not been notified by letter of this change of zoning in their neighborhood?"

In other business, Mayor Bennett read a letter of support for the American Legion's request to extend the Washington Street pier.

All council members were in favor of the support with the exception of Fred Wagner who opposed the pier location.

Wagner said, "I think we a controversial thing here. I am in favor of a facility but opposed to the location (Washington Street). If it were near your home you would feel the same way. I think it should be located in the commercial area."

Wilmer Seymour commented, "I can see your point, but I am in favor of it for this reason. The City does not have a boat ramp and I am for the Legion putting one up."

Crane Creek.....

"I want to know how the board feels about a performance bond for this work," Seal asked?

Board President A.A. (Dolph) Kellar replied, "If it were my beat I'd want a performance bond."

District Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner said, "I'll go along with a performance bond if this can be paid from revenue sharing, road and bridge or bridge construction funds."

Board Attorney Walter Gex stated, "You can designate these from any fund or from a combination of funds."

Ladner reported, "I've inherited this problem and I want to get this bridge reconstructed before school starts next fall. This bridge serves the Crane Creek Community."

Seal explained, "I've discussed this with Ladner. We have a seven-span concrete bridge consisting of 42 units."

The county engineer explained the problem of who would be responsible if a concrete span was broken by a contractor repairing the bridge.

Seal said the existing concrete spans would be lifted off of the existing pilings, new pilings would be driven then the concrete spans would be replaced.

"We could set up this job on a per unit basis. For example, if the contractor breaks a bridge span he wouldn't get paid for it," Seal suggested.

Kellar said, "If they break one of those spans, we're going to have to change the whole 19-foot bridge. We had a contractor break some concrete spans while repairing a Lakeshore bridge and we couldn't get replacements."

"The specifications have changed on these bridges and if you change one span you have to change them all," Kellar added.

District One Supervisor Bert Courge stated, "I've got some old bridge spans from the Old Claiborne Road."

Travira stated, "Sometimes its impossible not to break one of these slabs."

Gex suggested, "If think you better put this information in the specifications or I can see a lawsuit coming out of this. If a contractor breaks a slab he could say it was because it was old."

Seal stated, "I think if we make the specifications too rigid we're not going to get any bids."

Gex said, "We don't want to get to the point where slabs get broken and we have to put in a $60,000 bridge."

Seal explained, "I'm not trying to penalize a contractor, but if he takes these things out and installs them without damage he'll get paid for the work."

Ladner added, "Another words he's saying we're giving the contractor a bonus for taking out and installing the slabs in good condition."

Kellar said, "I don't believe you'll get any bids if the specifications are too rigid."

Cycle victim stable

A Hancock County youth is listed in 'stable' condition at Forrest General Hospital in Hattiesburg Wednesday after his motorcycle collided head-on with an automobile on Hwy. 603 Friday at 5 p.m.

Timmy J. Gambill, 16, Rt. 1 Box 355, suffered a compound fracture to the right leg and a fractured left leg after apparently drifting across the center of the road and ran into an automobile driven by Clifford J. Saucier, Rt. 1 Box 350, according to Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy Ronald Cuevas.

A spokesman at Forrest General Hospital said the compound fracture is the most serious of Gambill's injuries, but added he has a number of fractures to his left leg.

Gambill was taken to a hospital in Poplarville by Mobile Medic and was later transferred by helicopter to Hattiesburg, Cuevas reported.

FOLLOW THE SIGNS

Bits 'n pieces

We had an opportunity of viewing the Waveland Players production of 'Those Were The Days' Sunday and were very much impressed with the performances of so many talented local performers.

We know congratulations are in order for everyone, because it was a 'team effort' as the old saying goes.

Jan Aime, producer and directors Elise Beckett, Walter Vaughn and Piccola Dietrich could have not asked for a better performance.

We think everyone should try to view the plays produced locally, you would be surprised at the amount of talented folks we have in our community.

Congratulations to all involved for a job well done.

We had a friend of ours the other day mention the fact that he has been having his crab pots robbed since school has been out.

Everyone should realize that folks with piers have crab pots and crab nets attached to them and no one should bother them. We see many folks place crab pots in the lake, they should also be left alone.

We contend it is stealing when we rob someone's crabs from their nets.

There is a tendency today for many folks to ride on bicycles, and the age-old problem of dogs chasing bikers is still around. We were bitten when we were a kid by a dog when we were on a bicycle, so we know what it is all about.

If a person owns a dog, he should see that it is properly cared for and that does not include running loose on the streets.

Please let us enjoy our bicycling by not having to worry about being chased by dogs; keep them in proper yards.

Indications given seem to point to the fact that the Beachfront Festival was a large success last Saturday.

It has been a long time since we saw so many folks enjoying themselves as much as they were at the festival.

All of those participating should consider another similar venture again next year.

We feel the big edge was the fact that it was an off weekend with not too many conflicting events, and think that should again be considered for the next one.

We were at the Bay St. Louis softball field Friday evening when the derailment of the freight took place in Lakeshire.

We wish everyone in the county could have seen the tremendous response by Civil Defense, supervisors, sheriff's office and Firemen Association members.

If an evacuation would have been needed, everything was ready to go, red and blue lights were coming from all directions.

The roads blocked, sightseers kept at a distance until the contents of the wrecked cars could be determined and verified.

Cooperation took a big meaning for this disaster, and we commend all our emergency people.

Senator Thad Cochran

SPECIAL REPORT:
Refugee Problems

One issue that has been on everyone's mind recently is the influx of refugees into the United States from areas such as Southeast Asia, Cuba, and Haiti.

There has been a failure by our government to implement an effective policy that recognizes both our concern for these unfortunate refugees and other foreigners who want to come to the U.S. as well as our own national economic and social interests.

We want to be a good neighbor, but there has to be a limit to our hospitality.

There are two separate aspects of the overall problem of formulating and then enforcing U.S. policy. One involves setting the quotas for entry into our country of immigrants who intend to become citizens or who want to work either on a temporary or permanent basis. The other involves refugees who are fleeing from their own homelands for political reasons.

The refugee problem has been particularly troublesome. Most Americans are sympathetic to the plight of those fleeing Communist dictatorships in Cuba and Vietnam, for example, or oppressive regimes such as Haiti, but they feel that our present economic recession and some of the social tension already existing in some parts of the country make for an explosive situation. A large influx of refugees will obviously strain the job market, as well as housing, health and education services of our communities. Already, we are being advised the price tag for the American taxpayer in handling the 80,000 or more Cuban refugees could reach $300 million.

It is my contention the refugee problem is a world problem, and that other nations have a responsibility to help absorb the tide of people fleeing hostile conditions in their home countries. Our government should work within existing international organizations, including the United Nations, to encourage other nations to shoulder more responsibility for these homeless people.

Current law establishes a worldwide ceiling allowing people from foreign countries to immigrate into the United States each year. This numerical system has allowed nearly six million foreigners to come into our country since 1955, when this immigration control system was established by Congress.

There is legislation pending before the Senate Judiciary Committee, on which I serve, to liberalize our immigration laws and allow 61,000 aliens over and above the 270,000 statutory limit for 1980 to enter the U.S. this year. This is in addition to all the refugees who are entering the country on an emergency basis. I intend to make every effort to kill this provision of the bill.

U.S. immigration is already at the highest level in fifty years, with over 800,000 aliens admitted in 1978, the last year for which we have complete figures.

The Judiciary Committee also will have the opportunity, presumably in the near future, to consider the nomination of a new commissioner to head the Immigration and Naturalization Service, a post which has been vacant for nine months.

I plan to use these confirmation hearings as a forum to seek a commitment from the administration to formulate and carry out a more reasonable and effective policy in dealing with immigration and refugee problems. This has been sadly lacking in recent years.

Two years ago Congress mandated a special commission to study our immigration and refugee policy and to recommend modifications. While we are awaiting this study commission's report, which is due in about one year, I am advocating that the United States declare a moratorium on any immigration increases allowable under existing law.

The American people have always been humane and compassionate throughout our history to those seeking refuge for political, religious, economic or other compelling reasons. But we should not have the sole responsibility within the community of nations for bearing the burden for all the refugees, and immigration problems of the world.

SOMEONE WAS SLEEPING-The poll managers at Bayou Phillips precinct in Hancock County had to wade through waist high grass on election morning. To us it seems it should be someone's responsibility to see that such things are taken care of before election days. Another precinct was not able to open until after 7:15 a.m., seems no one had the key. Arrangements should have been made the day before election. This opening the precinct late could cause some folks on their way to work to forget about voting. We hope there will be an improvement by the next election. We figured this was enough to gripe about so we did not visit any other precincts, and we hope next election will run smoother.

Necaise seeks computer

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors authorized advertisements for bids Tuesday for a computer system requested by County Chancery Clerk E. Michael Necaise.

The chancery clerk says the county can purchase the system with no additional cost to taxpayers.

In an interview Tuesday afternoon, Necaise reported, "Right now the county's payroll, W-2 forms, tax rolls, tag receipts and several other accounts are contracted out to companies with computers."

"Our payrolls alone cost approximately $385 per month to be processed by a computer service plus all the other services," Necaise said.

"We could purchase a computer and do all of these services ourselves and we won't have to hire a special computer operator," the chancery clerk stated.

"Also, a computer would give us day-to-day reports on the status of funds whereas with our present system it takes a week and a half just to do a quarterly report," Necaise explained.

"We'll also be able to cut down on the number of accounts," Necaise added. When asked if the courthouse had enough room to house such a system,

Necaise replied, "We have space in the Chancery Clerk's offices because the computer is only about the size of a standard office desk."

Necaise said the county could easily afford a computer system due to the county's investment practices.

"Former Chancery Clerk John Rutherford started an excellent investment program and since I've been in office that program has been expanded," Necaise stated.

"Right now we're making $75,000-$100,000 this year by investing some of our idle funds," Necaise explained.

"It's estimated a computer system for our county will cost $30,000-$42,000 and a computer will consolidate all of the accounts from our county offices," the chancery clerk said.

"The board of supervisors has been receptive to this plan and a computer system would be a big help with our upcoming reappraisal program," Necaise stated.

When asked if a computer system would cut out any office personnel at the Courthouse, Necaise replied, "No, but this system will make us more efficient and modernize our record keeping procedures."

Bids for the new computer system will be opened 10 a.m. July 7 in the board room at the Courthouse.

500 Block of Main job acceptance due

By ELLIS CUEVAS
The City of Bay St. Louis has been threatened by the Mississippi State Highway Department with losing federal funds from the Urban System Program if the city does not accept the 500 block of Main Street project by July 15.

A letter addressed to Bay Mayor Larry J. Bennett on May 23 by John R. Tabb, department director said:

"...This is to advise if the City fails to take steps to close this project by June 15, 1980, we will cause withdrawal of federal funds from this project and the Urban System Program for the City of Bay St. Louis..."

The Council has been making efforts to settle the matter but members feel the job was not done properly and had tried to seek help from another engineering firm for an opinion but Burk and Associates, engineers for the project have voiced objections to the use of another firm.

Board Attorney Joseph Gex reported he had been in contact with a member of Burk and Associates and he wanted to meet with the Council.

Gex has been trying to get such a meeting with the engineering firm and it was agreed of meeting with them today at 4 p.m., in a "work shop."

Tuesday night Council expressed dissatisfaction as to how they have to accept a project they feel is not done according to specifications, in their opinion.

Wilmore Seymour mentioned a meeting he attended with the federal and state engineer and they said the job looked good to them and he didn't really see how they could win if the case would go to court with witnesses like them testifying against the city.

Council member James Thrifflay questioned why the engineering firm didn't advise them of charging the contractor with liquidated damages for running over the allotted time and why the property owners were not given a chance to file for possible damages during the construction.

The amount of funds involved are about $40,000 for the Main Street project and a little over $100,000 the city has accumulated in the fund for improvements on designated roads.

The city, by not accepting the project, has been holding up payment to the contractor for the street construction on the 500 block off Main Street.

County board refuses road closure request

By WAYNE DUOMB JR.

The County Board of Supervisors voted not to close an unpaved portion of Harvey Necaise Road in north Hancock County during an informal hearing Tuesday afternoon.

The hearing was the result of a petition submitted to the board last month signed by eleven county residents requesting the closure of the unpaved road.

Attorney Arron Adams of Bay St. Louis represented the petitioners and Lugis Necaise Jr., who was the principal landowner requesting the road closure.

Necaise stated, "The Harvey Necaise Road is located north of Kiln off of Hwy. 603 and passes through my property." An inspection of an official county map shows the road as a horseshoe type roadway which links back to Hwy. 603.

Necaise reported, "A car passes down the unpaved portion of the road every once and a while, but the majority of traffic comes to my place."

"The south end of the road is blacktopped and comes to about 40 feet from my property line. From my property line east the road is not blacktopped and no one else owns property in that area," Necaise explained.

Board Attorney Walter Gex asked Necaise, "Do you have any public vehicles that go through the road?"

Necaise replied, "Yes, a school bus. The road is a half circle and the bus uses the unpaved portion of the road."

Adams asked Necaise, "Does a mail route travel on the road?"

Necaise replied, "No, I'm the only person living back there and my mailboxes are on the highway."

Gex asked Necaise, "How long ago did you put your mailboxes on the highway?"

Necaise replied, "About two years ago."

Board President A.A. (Dolph) Kellar asked Necaise, "Would any other property owners be hindered in getting to their property if the road were closed?"

Necaise replied, "No."

Hancock North Central School Bus Driver Thelma Shiyu stated, "I drive the full circle on Harvey Necaise Road."

"I don't pick up any children on the unpaved portion, but I pick up some children on the paved portion close to the highway," Ms. Shiyu reported.

"The reason I use the unpaved section is because I need the road to turn around," Ms. Shiyu said.

Ms. Shiyu explained it was difficult to turn the bus around on the paved portion of the road and difficult to negotiate the turn back on to Hwy. 603 from that direction.

Frankie Necaise stated, "I live at the end of the blacktop on the road. I have no reason to oppose closing the road, but if you do close it I want a written statement saying the school bus will come and pick up my children at my home."

"If there's anyone that can give me that statement, then the road can be closed. It is necessary for my kids to go to school and I believe the unpaved portion is needed for them to do so," Frankie Necaise explained.

"About 38-39 years ago the then Supervisor Johnson Shaw made the road," Frankie Necaise reported.

Lugis Necaise further explained, "My granddaddy asked that the road be dug so they could go to the stations of the cross at church, but there was a gate at both ends of his property."

Frankie Necaise said, "They didn't cut ditches in front of the old house, but the road was cut in from both ways 38-39 years ago."

"When the road was cut completely through, the gates were moved," Frankie Necaise added.

Adams then requested the supervisor's committee report.

The supervisor's committee consisted of District One Supervisor Bert Courge and District Four Supervisor Sam Pernicaro.

Pernicaro said, "Yesterday evening Bert and I inspected the road. It needs some repair, on the unpaved part, but outside of that its no different than it was several years ago."

Courge concurred in the report.

Adams stated, "The main problem is the school bus can't make the turn at a Y in the road and at Hwy 603."

Courge said, "The corner at the highway is State Highway Department land."

Gex stated, "It would take land to correct the turn at the Y."

Lugis Necaise reported, "All of the land in that area belongs to Effie and Joe Cuevas."

Adams requested, "I would like to hear a recommendation from the committee."

Pernicaro said, "I think District Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner should decide since it's in his district, but the school bus should be able to use the road."

Courge added, "My main concern is the children and the school bus."

"I feel children are involved and I think we need to keep a bus running down that road," Courge said.

Gex stated, "As I understand, the recommendation is that the petitioners be denied because of concern over the school bus?"

Pernicaro said, "I don't have anything against Lugis Necaise or any other Necaise."

District Five Supervisor James Travira suggested, "We might be able to make a compromise."

Frankie Necaise said, "If somebody will sign a statement to allow the bus to pick up my kids no matter what, I have no objections."

Lugis Necaise stated, "My main concern is the use of the road by the bus. There's a road by Frankie's house, why can't the bus use it?"

Frankie Necaise replied, "That's a private road which runs by my shop."

Adams stated, "I would like to make a motion that the committee report be overruled."

The supervisors then voted to accept the committee report.

Adams then requested, "I would like to make a motion to put aside the report of the committee."

Gex explained, "Does the board confirm the committee report or reject it?"

The supervisors voted to confirm the committee report.

Travira was reluctant to confirm the report and explained, "I don't like to go against the committee, but I still say we can talk with the County School Board for some sort of compromise."

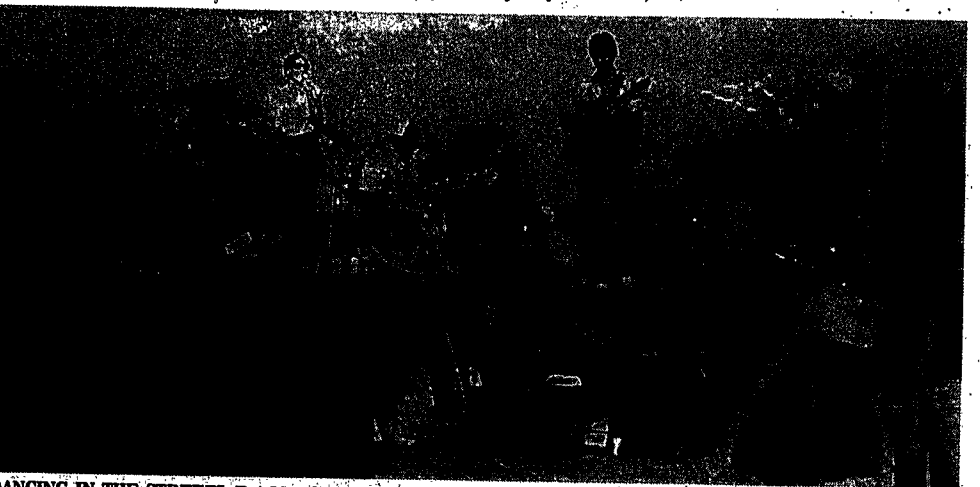

Lugis Necaise stated, "My action was not against anyone and I'm not against a school child, but it's because of my intentions of developing my property."

"I don't want to put a hardship on the bus driver either," Lugis Necaise added.

Courge said, "I agree, but we have to consider the school children."

Advertising begins for HNC special ed building

By RICH ADAMS

The Hancock County School Board Monday night authorized Superintendent Billy D. Sillis to begin advertising on a proposed handicapped center on the Hancock North Central Campus.

School Architect John Mykolyk told the board his plans for the proposed facility, required by Public Law 94-142, are 95 percent complete and advertising should begin in order to receive all bids by the July 7 regular board meeting.

The board has yet to have a resolution concerning funding for the new building approved by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, but Sillis said that if the resolution were not approved the school board could take the bids under advisement.

Board Attorney Joseph Gex told the board the supervisors could call for a bond issue election to fund the building, in which case the school board could also take the bids under advisement pending results of that election.

"Go ahead and advertise. We are hoping to get the bids by the July 7 meeting," Board President Woodrow Ladner told the board members.

On a motion by Oris Ladner, seconded by Louie Ladner, the motion was passed.

Oris Ladner, Louie Ladner, and Woodrow Ladner were the only board members present at the regular meeting Tuesday night.

In other business Tuesday, Helen Peterson, a school patron, criticized the board for last Saturday's rehiring of Head Basketball Coach Roland Ladner.

Ladner was not recommended for rehiring by HNC Principal Thad Haskins, as was not Head Football Coach Irvin Favre.

Last Saturday the board went into executive session to conduct individual due process hearings with both coaches, and rehired the pair following the hearings.

"I know nothing about due process, but you went into executive session so none of us know where the due process broke down," Peterson told the board.

She predicted an "exodus" of teachers who feel their contracts may not be renewed next year following Favre and Ladner's alleged unavailability this year when they could not be notified of the non-renewal.

"These teachers were not available between April 1 and April 8, so what is going to stop other teachers from leaving at this time," Peterson asked.

Sillis explained that he plans to have recommendations for principals ready in February, for certified personnel in March, and for non-certified personnel in April.

"This will give us from March 1 to April 8 to notify the teachers of any non-renewal," Louie Ladner told Peterson.

Peterson then quoted from newspaper reports following last Saturday's hearings in which Coach Ladner was quoted as saying he feels he does a "fine job in the classroom and goes above and beyond the call of duty."

"As a parent, I take exception to this. He has not gone above and beyond the call of duty," Peterson said.

"There are days when Mr. (Roland) Ladner is not even in his class. This doesn't occur one time a year, or one time a month, or once a semester. This happens at least two times a week," she continued.

"If a student makes a mistake in his math class, he will continue to make that mistake time and time again, because there is nobody in the classroom to correct the mistake," Peterson said.

"I don't blame Coach Ladner for this. Math is the most important class in school, and basketball is the most important sport to people in this community," she continued.

"When you, as school board president, talk to Coach Ladner, you always ask about the team. You never talk about how well the class is going," she said to Woodrow Ladner.

"When parents see Mr. Ladner, they never ask about the class, they just ask about how well the team is going to do this year and ask if their son will play more," Peterson continued.

"When the general public in this community talks to Mr. Ladner, they never ask about how well the class is doing, they just talk about basketball," she added.

"The day the school board, parents, and people in Hancock County begin to worry as much about what is going on in the classroom as what is going on in the gymnasium, the day the school board, parents, and people of Hancock County start thinking about the round objects with brains in them as much as the round objects with air in them, is the day education will come first in this school system," she added.

"For whatever reason, whether politics, a legal mistake, or whatever, you, as leaders in the community, blew it when you rehired Mr. Ladner," Peterson told the board.

Peterson explained that her son received high scores on all areas of the ACT test except in the math area, in which he received a lower-than-average score.

After a short argument between Oris Ladner and Peterson, Woodrow Ladner thanked Peterson for her comments.

In other business, the board rejected a bid from John V. Ladner for the purchase of a school-owned trailer.

Woodrow Ladner and Joseph Gex agreed that John Ladner's bid was not clear, noting that the bid read 102-02 and could not be confirmed as a monetary bid.

Sillis said he will contact Ladner to clarify the bid.

Woodrow Ladner suggested the board ask District Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner to move the trailer and declare the mobile building as "garbage," but Gex suggested the board "get the $100 if possible."

The board will meet Friday morning at 9 a.m. when Sillis is expected to give a five-year interim report on the school system and recommend priorities in the building and academic program.

The letter to Mayor Larry Bennett requested a timely submission of a reply and indications were given that a prompt reply would be made.

Seymour indicated that an all out effort was made by them in order to come up with the monies to give the merchants the much needed, and promised facilities.

Harmon Turan, of Turan-Lane Chevrolet, said Wednesday morning, "It is very good news to get these improvements on US-90, it will benefit the city as a whole."

Buddy Whitfield commented, "I will be glad to get the water, I really needed it and it will help the city development."

Robert Taconi, owner of Taconi's Hardware allowed, "I am glad they (City Council) came through with the water and fire protection. I will be happy when the city gets water and sewer services and fire protection throughout the complete area."

"In the next five years we can expect a lot of growth, but these vital services of water and sewerage is a must for us to receive this much needed growth," Taconi added.

Bridge wreck injures seven

By RICH ADAMS

A Bay St. Louis man, the most seriously injured of seven hurt in a Saturday night, three-car pile up on the Bay automobile bridge, was released from Gulfport Memorial Hospital Monday.

The other six were released from Hancock General Hospital early Sunday morning following treatment of injuries sustained in the 11:20 p.m. accident Saturday.

According to investigating officer David Kenny of the Mississippi Highway Patrol, all three cars were traveling in the westbound lanes of the bridge on the Hancock County side when a white Lincoln Continental in the inside lane driven by Nathaniel Jones, 22, 120 Cathy St., Bay St. Louis, apparently struck the rear of an Oldsmobile driven by Walter Gagnon, 29, 205 Central Avenue, Waveland.

The car driven by Gagnon then apparently careened into the outside westbound lane and struck a car driven by Louis Davis, 23, 716 Shieldsboro Dr., Bay St. Louis, forcing Davis' car into the bridge rail from which it bounced and rebounded into the eastbound lanes of traffic, Kenny reported.

Passengers riding in the Gagnon car were his wife, Christine, 29; Alta Gagnon, 3; Thelma Gagnon, 9; Brian Gagnon, 4; and Carla Tartavouille, 30, Kenny said.

Robert McDowell, a passenger in the car driven by Jones, the officer continued.

Passengers in the Davis vehicle were Larry Jackson, Neil Wilkerson, and David Thompson, no ages or addresses available, Kenny added.

Jones, Tartavouille, McDowell, Jackson, Davis, and Brian and Christine Gagnon were all injured and taken to Hancock General Hospital by Mobile Medic, the highway patrolman said.

A spokesman at Hancock General said all injured were treated and released with the exception of McDowell, who was transferred to Gulfport Memorial Hospital.

McDowell was admitted to Gulfport Memorial, where he received treatment for his injuries and was released Monday, a hospital spokesman said.

No tickets have been issued in the mishap, but Kenny said citations "will definitely be issued once the investigation is complete."

The Bay St. Louis Police Department also responded to the accident.

At the hospital, Kenny reported some 30 people, including relatives of the injured, caused confusion by demanding preferential treatment for their injured kin.

"I was busy trying to get names of the injured, so I didn't pay much attention to the noise. No fighting erupted, though," Kenny said Wednesday.

Necaise elected Pass school board prexy

The Pass Christian Municipal Separate School Board elected Thomas Necaise as its president for 1980. Necaise has been a member of the board since March 1978.

Necaise, who served the board as vice-president during 1979, succeeds Donald DeMetz whose term of office as a board member expired in March.

Necaise, who was first elected to the Board in 1976, has now completed the cycle of offices having previously served as secretary and vice-president to the board.

Evelyn Webb was elected vice-president and Nelvin Ladner was elected school board secretary.

In a brief ceremony the school board paused to pay tribute to departing member Donald DeMetz and to welcome the newest member of the Board, Steve Saudier.

President Necaise presented DeMetz with a resolution adopted by the Board, thanking DeMetz for his "years of faithful and dedicated service to the students and community."

In addition, Necaise presented him with a plaque from the school district and an engraved gavel symbolic of his tenure as board president. Superintendent Lizana and members of the board joined in expressing thanks and appreciation to the departing board member.

In expressing his thanks for the accolades, DeMetz stated that he had performed his duties to the best of his ability and that his tenure as a board member has served to reinforce his convictions about the values and worth of public education.

John Mykolyk, board architect, presented a report to the board on the condition of roofs on the building throughout the district. In his report, Mykolyk indicated that there are several roofs that will possibly need replacing very soon.

Mykolyk stated that portions of the roof on the Pass Christian Elementary School that were replaced following Hurricane Camille will need replacing or major repairs soon. In addition, the roof on the Pass Christian High School gymnasium would soon need special attention.

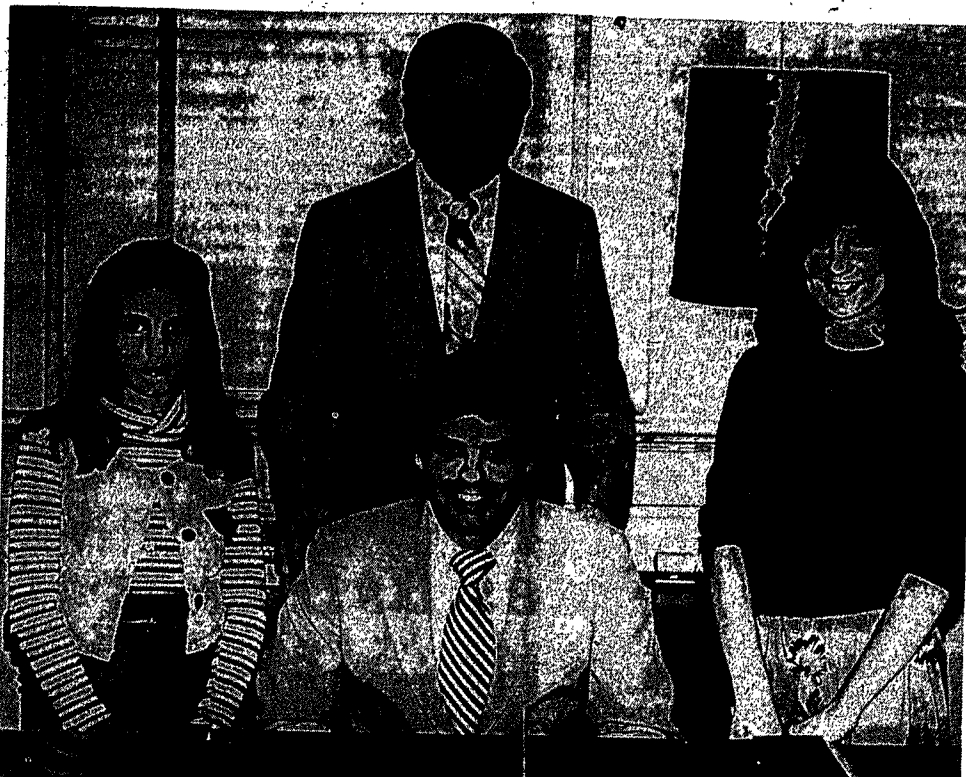

Members of the school board expressed their concerns about the life expectancy of roofs on school buildings and what alternatives are available that would serve as a hindrance to the problems the district is experiencing with roof repairs.

Mykolyk indicated that there are some newer products on the market that are designed to increase the longevity to the type of flat roofs used in typical school construction. Mykolyk told the board that he would investigate thoroughly before writing specifications for repairs or replacements of roofs in the school district.

Superintendent LeRoy Lizana recommended and the board approved the schedule for summer school classes. As recommended classes will be held at the Pass Christian High School. There will be only one summer session this year.

Classes will start on June 11 and end on July 25th. Fees approved for summer classes are: $100.00 for 2 high school units; $75.00 for 1 1/2 high school units; $50.00 for 1 high school unit; and $25.00 for each 1/2 high school unit.

Junior high students will be assessed $50.00 for 2 junior high units and $25.00 for one junior high school unit. Courses to be offered in summer school will be decided by the demand factor.

Paper mill to locate in north Mississippi

Plans for a $200 million newsprint mill, to be located in north Mississippi, were announced recently by Governor William Winter.

At capacity, the single machine will produce 200,000 tons of newsprint annually. Subject to the results of a feasibility study, start up is scheduled for early 1983.

The governor said the existence of a mill in the northern part of the state will provide an excellent and sustaining market for pulpwood located in a 100-mile radius of the mill site.

The State Department of Economic Development reports, "the project will provide substantial employment at the mill. In addition, jobs will be provided for cutting and hauling in the woodlands."

Ownership will be a three-way partnership consisting of Mississippi landowners, a group of 13 southern newspaper publishers and an established newsprint producer.

The Governor emphasized that an agreement in principle has been reached among the three partner groups.

The plan calls for the landowners to commit woodlands to supply, at competitive prices, the necessary pulpwood for the mill's operation.

This is estimated to be approximately 250,000 acres. The DED said, the publisher group will guarantee the purchase of 100 percent of the mill's output. The producer will supervise the engineering and construction and will operate the facility.

"The manufacturing process will be thermomechanical pulp, a method which uses only a small percent of chemical pulp and which is odor free and relatively free of other forms of air and water pollution," the DED added.

"The landowner's group will form a cooperative to seek major financing for the plant's construction from the New Orleans Bank of Cooperatives," a department spokesman said.

The publisher group represents newspapers in nine Southern states, all located within a 500-mile radius of the mill site.

Chairman of the publishers committee is MacKinnon, president of the Louisville Courier-Journal & Times.

Owen Cooper, former chief executive officer of Mississippi Chemical Corporation, heads the group organizing the landowners' cooperative.

A series of landowner organizational meetings are planned for later this month in Grenada, Pittsboro, Oxford, Eupora and Winona.

Site selection has not been made but negotiations are underway with several landowners in northern Mississippi.

A department spokesman reported, "This project has been a coordinated state agency-university team effort with the involvement of the Mississippi Department of Economic Development, the Ford and Fiber Center, Cooperative Extension Service, Mississippi State University, the Mississippi R & D Center, and assistance from utilities and other development groups."

The Mississippi Department of Economic Development (formerly A & I Board) reported it funded the initial feasibility study and coordinated efforts to bring the project to a successful conclusion.

"The Food and Fiber Center has and will continue to be involved in working with the farmer organizations, providing educational and technical services," a department spokesman added.

Loicano Standing is C.B. 'Buddy' Newman, Speaker of the House of Representatives. The girls attended an inaugural ball in Jackson and stayed at Millsaps College. The pages errands for the representatives and answered phones for officials.

MR. AND MRS. DONALD CUEVAS ACCEPT DELIVERY OF THEIR NEW CHEVY PICK-UP FROM HAK DOYLE, TURAN-LANE CHEVROLET SALESMAN.

"We were in need of a new pick-up truck. At Turan-Lane Chevrolet we talked to salesman Hak Doyle, who gave us a good deal on a 1980 blue and silver chevy pick-up. We have a family car but will probably use the pick-up more than the car as transportation to work at the post office and for hauling things around occasionally. We appreciate the friendly way everyone treated us at Turan-Lane Chevrolet and recommend salesman Hak Doyle to all our friends interested in purchasing a new car or truck."

Noella Williams victor in benefit net event

Four of the top ten seeded female tennis players in Hancock County recently competed in a round robin tennis tournament for the benefit of the Crippled Children's Fair slated June 7 and 8 in Waveland.

The tournament was organized and supervised by Brother Canisius Schell, Project Do coordinator. Noella Williams went undefeated and won the match, surviving a close set with Coleen Dawson.

Anne Johnson and Anne Heitzmann fought a tough battle for second place with Johnson coming out the winner.

Dawson ended up fourth in the competition.

The Crippled Children's Fair is being conducted to raise money in order to provide handicapped children in Hancock County with a therapeutic water program this summer.

Debbie Anselmo, president of the Therapeutic Swim Program, Inc., a non-profit organization, is in charge of the swim program.

Individuals or local organizations wishing to assist in promotion of the Fair may contact Anselmo at 467-1506 or call Diane Bordages at 467-8269.

SPORT BILLY INTERVIEWS THE SUPERSTARS

MEET: AMERICAN LEAGUE UMPIRE LOU DIMURO

American League umpire Lou Dimuro is beginning his 18th year calling strikes and balls. Although Dimuro never played professional baseball he did hit a few out of the park while serving in the U.S. Air Force in West Germany. But while in Germany he decided that his forte was not playing, but officiating. SPORT BILLY, the official mascot of many major international sports federations and events, recently interviewed Dimuro.

Sport Billy: You have one of the roughest jobs in sports yet, you've been umpiring for 18 years now. Why do you take the verbal abuse from players and managers year after year?

Dimuro: I have always been a baseball lover. I knew that I didn't have the ability to play in the majors but still wanted to be associated with the game in some manner. So I chose umpiring. Sure, it's a thankless job, but you get accustomed to the harsh words from both players and managers. If you can't adapt, you won't last very long in the big leagues.

Sport Billy: How long did you officiate in the minors?

Dimuro: I spent eight years umpiring in the minor leagues. I began in Class D ball in 1955. A year later I was officiating Northern League games. Then I went to the Eastern League and finally to the International League. None of those minor leagues are around today.

Sport Billy: What kind of qualities are necessary to become a major league umpire?

Dimuro: You must be enthusiastic about baseball to ump and must be fair and impartial. Sure, I have favorite teams that I root for but you cannot allow favoritism to come between you and officiating. You also have to have a lot of stamina. We do a lot of traveling during the season and it's often lonely. Umpires seldom, if ever, associate with players off the field. It's a custom that has endured through the decades. It's hard being away from your family for weeks at a stretch but you get used to it. Sport Billy: Were you involved in any infamous scrapes during your rookie season in the American League?

Dimuro: Yes, I was. There was one game I was doing between the Yankees and another team I don't remember now. There was a disputed call and Yankee manager Ralph Houk stormed out on the field to protest. I gave him a warning and when he didn't pipe down, I threw him out. The Yankees were outraged and I was surrounded by a sea of pinstrips. My thumb was busy that day - I tossed out five Yankees!

Sport Billy: What have been some of your biggest thrills as a major league umpire?

Dimuro: There have been many. I enjoyed doing the All-Star games in 1955, 1967 and 1972 and the 1969 World Series between New York and Baltimore. I also officiated the 1976 National League playoffs between the Reds and the Mets.

Sport Billy: What do you do during the off-season?

Dimuro: I often conduct umpire clinics. I've conducted clinics all over the United States and Paris, London, Frankfurt and Wiesbaden (West Germany). I also teach from time to time at the umpire clinics in Florida.

Sport Billy: What will you do after your umpiring days are over?

Dimuro: All umpires must retire at age 55 so I don't have too many years left in the majors. I've been going to school during the off-season in Tucson, where my home is, studying hotel and motel management. I'd also like to do public relations work, probably for major league baseball.

Sport Billy: Any advice for aspiring umpires?

Dimuro: The field is extremely competitive, perhaps even more so than getting in to the majors as a player because there aren't as many positions available and once an umpire does make it, he'll hold onto the job until he's 55. If you truly have the desire to become an umpire, learn about the game as much as possible. Attend one of the three umpiring schools we operate in Florida - that's the best training you can get. And officiate in baseball games. The more practice you get, the better off you are.

Buying old homes may be expensive

"MONEY TALK"

By NORINE BARNES

Many people are buying older homes. It is very important that consumers consider the time, work, and money involved in maintaining and/or remodeling their purchase.

A careful evaluation of the condition of the house should be made before buying.

Siding

If paint on the wood surface or siding is peeling down to the wood, moisture from the inside may be seeping through the structure. New aluminum or vinyl siding may be hiding a moisture problem; ask neighbors when the siding was added and what the original siding looked like.

Roof and Foundation Wall

A swayed or bowed roof ridge line may indicate that floor joists are poorly supported or that the foundation is settling; to be certain, check the foundation walls or the main support in the basement.

Roof shingles should lay flat; look for damage around the lower part of the roof. If asphalt shingles have turned from white or green to black, are curled under at the ends, or have lost their granular surface, they are old and may have to be replaced.

A metal roof that looks rusty might be beyond repair; remember that these roofs must be coated with roof paint every three to five years to prevent serious rust.

Windows and Doors

All windows and doors should fit snugly but offer little resistance in opening and closing; poor fit can run up the heating and cooling bill.

Windows should be of thermal glass—two panes separated by an air space—or be protected by snugly fitting storm windows. Wood frames are best for saving energy, but must be painted every five years; the newer vinyl frames require less maintenance. Peeling or cracked putty must be replaced and the project can be expensive if professionally done.

Check to see that there are no large gaps, but an even space all the way around between a door and its frame; weatherstripping should fill that space. A vestibule protecting an entrance door from the outside will cut down on heat loss.

Electrical Service

Electricity enters the house from the outside through a two- or three-wire system or a cable wrapped by three wires. A three-wire system, delivering 240 volt service, is advisable.

A two-wire system delivers only 120 volt service, not enough to run a range, a dishwasher, a washing machine, clothes dryer or an electric water heater.

Wiring

New systems are channeled through metal conduits, flexible cable, or plastic. Avoid older systems of wiring covered with silver-colored cloth or single wires connected to insulated ceramic spools.

Electrical service should be controlled by a fuse or circuit breaker box with a main circuit breaker or fuse bank to shut off all electricity.

Each major appliance should have its own circuit breaker; if the circuits in the box are not labeled, they should be inspected by an electrician or fire underwriter.

Interior Walls and Ceilings

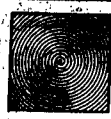

Hairline cracks in plaster are not serious, but larger cracks must be routed and replastered. A bulge in the wall indicates that the plaster has pulled away from the lath and may have to be replaced; this condition may be camouflaged by wallpaper holding the plaster in place.

Damp spots on a plaster ceiling may indicate a roof leak or insulation dampened by humidity.

Today dry wall or gypsum board has virtually replaced plaster as wall material. Board panels should be 4 feet wide, 8 feet long, and ½ inch thick and the joints taped and smoothed by dry wall compound so that seams are not detectable.

Inexpensive paneling is sometimes glued and nailed to a dilapidated wall surface to hide its condition.
